

Amber Vernon is a licensed clinical psychologist who serve children and adults through Richmond Behavioral Health Authority (Richmond's Community Service Board). Since 2012 she has worked closely with Richmond Police Department as a Crisis Intervention Training (CIT) and recruit instructor, as an evaluator for pre-employment and return-to-duty, and as a responder to officer involved shootings (OIS) and critical incidents. Prior to RBHA, Dr. Vernon worked at Powhatan Correctional Center through the VA Department of Corrections after completing her predoctoral internship through the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey (UMDNJ). She holds a doctoral degree in clinical psychology from Pacific University (Oregon) as well as a master's degree in Women's Studies through The George Washington University (DC).